

A Wish For a Castle

When he reached the edge of the sea, the fisherman stood	11
there and shouted:	14
“Oh, prince of the sea, come listen to me.	23
For Alice, my wife, who upsets my life,	31
Has sent me to ask a wish of thee.”	40
Suddenly the fish popped up above the high wave and	50
asked, “Now then, what does she want?”	57
“She wants to live in a castle,” answered the fisherman.	67
“Go home!” called the fish. “Your wife is standing at	77
the castle door.”	80
And with that he was gone.	86
The fisherman walked along the same path he had	95
followed before. But the house was gone. In its place stood a	107
great stone castle, and standing on the steps was his wife.	118
