

The Shopkeeper

The shopkeeper was starting to wash the window. It was almost covered with marks left by fingers and faces.	10 19
Ah Jim said to the shopkeeper, "I would like to wash the window for you."	31 34
"But the marks are not all your finger marks," said the shopkeeper.	45 46
"I know," said Ah Jim. "But many of them are. I will wash the window."	58 61
"Very good," said the shopkeeper.	66
Ah Jim set his bowl down on the walk and started to work. He began to clean and shine the window. While he worked, he watched the golden dog. Soon the window was clean and bright.	78 89 99 102
