

The Pet Shop

The man who owned the shop came outside.	8
“Don’t put your hands and face against my window,” he said. “Boys and girls come to look at the dog in my shop. I must always wash this window after they leave.”	18 31 40
Ah Jim hurried away, carrying his empty bowl. He was hungry, so he ran right home for lunch.	49 58
After his lunch, Ah Jim went out to play. He still carried his bowl.	69 72
At the top of the hill his brothers were flying their kites. The kites looked like large golden birds. Ah Jim stopped to watch them.	83 93 97
