How well do you adjust to change? Recognize that change is as certain to some as death or taxes.

You cannot avoid change, but you can adjust to it. How quickly you do this is one index of your likely success in the world ahead.

As well as acts of nature, people cause change to take place. Growth in use of computers in homes and business is an example of change caused by people.

Have you been able to handle the many changes the computer has brought to your life?
