

Advanced Placement (AP) and Concurrent Enrollment Course

Informational Paper on School Fees

Treatment of fees for AP and concurrent enrollment courses is dependent on the entity that recognizes the revenue and costs, regardless of whom the student pays. LEA/School fees are subject to R277-407 school fee and fee waiver rules. Higher Education fees are not subject to R277-407 school fee and fee waiver rules. The treatment of the fees depends on what costs the fees will be used to pay and what entity incurs those costs:

Fees recognized and costs incurred at the LEA/School:

1. Fees charged by the LEA for high school graduation credit;

An LEA may charge fees for a student's enrollment in an AP or concurrent enrollment course in the same manner that the LEA may charge fees for any other course that it offers. These fees are not a charge for college credit and ARE subject to the fee and waiver requirements established in R277-407. (R277-407(5)(5))

2. Fees for textbooks for AP and concurrent enrollment courses.

An LEA may charge a fee for a textbook used for a concurrent enrollment or advanced placement course. However, these textbook fees are subject to waiver. (R277-407(12)(2)(a))

Fees recognized and cost incurred at the institution of higher education for college credit.

An institution of higher education may charge fees for a student's enrollment in a concurrent enrollment course according to the levels set in 53E-10-305 and may charge fees for an advanced placement examination according to those set by the College Board. These fees are a charge for college credit and are NOT subject to the fee and waiver requirements established in R277-407. (R277-407(2)(11)(a)(ii))
